

MEDIA RELEASE 10/01/06

Up Close with Itty Bitty Creatures

Children from all over the twin cities are discovering some of the smaller creatures of the Great Barrier Reef these holidays at Reef HQ Aquarium.

“Itty Bitty Creatures” is the theme of the January School Holiday Program currently running at Reef HQ between 10.30am and 12.30pm daily.

Reef HQ Public Programs Manager Julie Spencer said “This holiday program lets kids discover the smallest animals and plants on the reef and the role they play in a relaxed and fun way.”

The aquarium runs different activity programs each holiday period that include games and craft projects designed to educate about the Great Barrier Reef.

The program is free with admission or membership to Reef HQ and just some of the projects include creating plankton mobiles and magnifying glasses plus games and other craft activities.

Bookings are not required and children must be accompanied by an adult.

Photo Opportunities:

- Children participating in games and activities of the program
- Reef HQ Staff educating children about the Itty Bitty Creatures of the reef
