

How do they survive underwater?

How do sea creatures breathe underwater? Most animals use special organs called gills.
Circle the animals below if you think they have gills:

For the animals that you didn't circle, investigate how they are able to survive for life underwater.

